

Time is Money

A collection of 18th and 19th century pocket watches are included in the auction of watches, jewellery & silver at Charterhouse in Sherborne on 2nd & 3rd May.

“For centuries pocket watches dominated the market until the wristwatch was developed in the early 20th century but remain popular today amongst collectors,” commented Richard Bromell.

The watches have been passed down through generations of family members. Made from silver, gold, and tortoiseshell they are each estimated from £100 to £4,000.
