

Beswick set to bring in the Bidders

A huge collection of Beswick is to be sold in the Charterhouse 17th & 18th October two day auction in Sherborne, Dorset.

“We have been selling Beswick for many years during which time we have sold vast amounts of this popular pottery for large amounts of money” commented Richard Bromell. “Often clients bring in a few pieces but this collection which has been amassed over a lifetime, is huge and one of the larger selections we have been instructed to sell.”

The Beswick collection comes from a deceased estate in Darlington, North Yorkshire.

Despite being displayed on shelves around the walls in a small bungalow over 300 miles away, the executors decided to auction the collection through Charterhouse due to their track record and high prices achieved from selling Beswick.

In the collection of hundreds of pieces of Beswick, there are horses, cattle, sheep, other farm animals, birds, dogs and other animals.

Included in the collection are a family of three Beswick Red Friesian cattle estimated at £1,000-£1,500. A chocolate Labrador has an estimated value of between £200-£400.

Beswick red Friesian cattle

Beswick chocolate Labrador

A Canadian Cowboy £300-£400 –see below

and an Indian £200-£300,

HRH The Queen and HRH Prince Philip £150-£250 each see image below.

Lots estimated from just £30 to £1,500 the collection of expected to sell for around £15,000.

Charterhouse are now accepting further entries for their busy November auction programme with classic and vintage cars on Sunday 3rd November followed by silver, jewellery, watches & Asian Art on 14th & 15th November.

For further information regarding these specialist auctions, or to arrange a home visit, contact Richard Bromell and the team of experts at Charterhouse, The Long Street Salerooms, Sherborne 01935 812277 or email info@charterhouse-auction.com