

Book Bidders Delight

The Charterhouse two day Auction on Thursday 27th & Friday 28th July includes the contents of a Wellington bookshop.

“There are thousands and thousands of books ancient and modern,” commented Richard Bromell. “It was a lifetime’s accumulation of books, some of which were bought from our auctions 10 to 15 years ago as the boxes still have our old lot numbers on them!”

The bookshop was known to many bookworms over the years. Although the main selling area was on the ground floor, books were also stored on the two floors above which made emptying the shop interesting for the Charterhouse crew in the warm summer weather.

In amongst the 1000's of volumes, there are books of West Country interest, history, natural history, children's, travel and architecture. However, one subject which shines out is the large selection of fine art and antique reference books. There are many Antique Collectors' Club books along with a huge selection of the very popular Taschen volumes.

With the majority of books being sold at Charterhouse in an as new condition or in plastic wrappers, it represents an amazing opportunity for bidders to buy some fabulous books at a fraction of their retail cost. All the lots from the bookshop are being offered for sale at auction without reserve.

Viewing for the Charterhouse two day auction of books, pictures, antiques & interiors with a special selection of automobilia, is on Wednesday 26th 10am-6pm & Thursday 27th July from 9am. Alternatively, you can see all the lots and bid live on the internet via www.charterhouse-auction.com

Charterhouse is now accepting further entries for their summer programme of specialist auctions which include silver, jewellery, watches and wine on 24th and 25th August and classic and vintage motorcycles on 1st September followed by classic and vintage cars on 13th September.
